Chapter 1 by lightningstrikeshannah (I'm back!)

What do you mean you lost the lottery ticket?

Chapter 2 by R

"I -" He stutters out, but there's nothing to say. This is it, the worst of all possible worlds. They'd finally won the lottery, but the ticket is gone.

She digs through all the drawers, frantic. "You can't have just lost it!" She called out, eyes wide. "This was our chance! My chance! We were going to have a good life!"

He stares at her, silent, and the tears dripped down his face. How had this happened? He knew the deal was a bad idea.

After all, what deal with the devil doesn't have a trick ending?

Chapter 3 by danisonphil

"We don't need the money, along as we have each other right?" He says trying to distract her by pulling her close.

"Get off me!" She screams pulling away from him, "How could you ruin my one chance at happiness."

"I thought we were happy." He say doubting himself, he knew if he were truly happy he wouldn't have made the deal

He knew he had stuffed up. He lost the ticket and the girl of his dreams. He knew what he had to do.

Chapter 4 by SaintSayaka

He raised the knife, not particularly pointing it anywhere. Where it landed would decide what he did next.

The tip searched, and fell.

Chapter 5 by ms.poptart

It hit him, right in his stomach. He fell to the ground in pain, but he knew all of it was worth it. He had already lost everything he loved. He had nothing else anymore.

He lay there on the floor in the puddle of blood forming around him. There was a light. It was like arms reaching for him. There was no sound. It was all just peaceful and quiet, just the way he liked it.

Then, the light disappeared. He opened his eyes, waiting to feel more pain, but he didn't. He didn't even feel the thick, wet puddle of blood he was laying in keep forming around him. He turned on his right side and glanced up.

His eyes widened in fear and in confusion with a hint of curiosity.

"Now, why would you go around doing something as foolish as that?" The devil had asked.

He furrowed his eyes, knowing he'd regret what he was about to say. "To get away from you and this hell hole you've built." He spit out like venom. The devil raised his eyebrows.

"Oh, a confident one, are we? Well, you're going to regret saying that after everything I've done for you." He says. "Tsk, tsk, tsk. Selfish 'lil fellow, hm? I've got a job for you to do. It's going to be mighty hard, and coming from me, you know it's true. But if you want your girl and life back, take

And he was willing to do that.

"Deal." He mumbled, staring at the Devil. The Devil smirked. "Great, now let's get started." He said and laughed an evil laugh.

Oh great. What'd he get himself into this time?

Chapter 6 by Lacey Raven

The devil took him to an empty area with only two cushions. The devil sat down on one and gestured for him to sit on the other.

"What I need you to do is simple. I am not requiring you to kill anyone, unless it helps you complete your task. All I need you to do is to start a war."

Chapter 7 by Rosetta

"How am I supposed to do that?" I ask the devil.

"I don't know? However, you can!" The devil answered. I got up and tried to leave. "Fine but if you do not succeed you are coming with me, forever!" And the devil left, leaving me to sit and think alone.
